

Government Men to Give 'Gen' Talk

Requirements for work with the Civil Service will be outlined by Mr. R. B. Code and Mrs. L. W. Moffitt from the Government Civil Service Commission at another "Gen. Night" to be held in the Union hall on Thursday evening, Dec. 4, at 8 p.m.

The topic for the evening will be "Opportunities in the Civil Service" and the scope of this "Nite" will include a wide variety of Government professions such as the Diplomatic Corps, the various research divisions, foreign trade department, administrative posts and many others.

This meeting is another of a series of vocational guidance lectures given in the form of "Gen. Nights" and is sponsored by the Educational Committee of the Arts and Science Undergraduates Society under the chairmanship of Ian MacKay, but the subjects to be discussed should be of interest to students from all faculties and the committee welcomes everyone to attend.

It has been announced that the meeting will take the form of a panel discussion and will later be open for questions. Refreshments will be served in the Reading room of the Union and this will allow for further informal discussion.

Prof. Watkins To Address Pol. Sc. Club

Professor Watkins will address the Political Science Club today, Dec. 3, at one p.m. in the New Room of the Union. His topic will be "Recent Trends in Political Science".

Professor Watkins is a native of Providence, R.I. He received his Ph.D. degree from Harvard University where he studied with the noted political scientist, Professor C. M. Friedrich, author of "Constitutional Government and Democracy", and later taught at Cornell University.

During the war, he taught at the Harvard School for Overseas Administration and was connected with the O.S.S. Last year, he was appointed Professor of Political Science at McGill.

The Professor is well known in his field. He is the author of "The State as a Concept of Political Science" and "The Failure of Constitutional Emergency Powers in the Weimar Republic". He has also contributed to such noteworthy publications as "The Encyclopedia of Social Sciences" and "The Harvard Law Review".

All students are invited to attend.

Prof. Hendel Addresses To Start Tonight

"Man knows himself" will be the topic of the first lecture, in a series of three, to be given by Professor C. W. Hendel tonight in Moyse Hall at 8 p.m.

The former McGill Dean of Arts and Science will resume the series on Thursday evening with "Responsibility to a Man and God" and will conclude his visit with a lecture "The Hopes of Politics, Education and Religion" on Friday, all lectures being held in Moyse Hall at 8 p.m. each evening.

This is Professor Hendel's second visit to McGill since his departure for Yale in 1940 and during this period he served with the American Forces as Head of the Department of Philosophy at Shrinvenham American University in England where he had the opportunity to meet and have discussions with Army men from all walks of life.

As a result of these discussions concerning their views on human life and religion Professor Hendel is well qualified to speak on the Army man's outlook and it is upon this experience that he is basing these lectures dealing with moral philosophy.

Dawson A & S Meeting Gets Poor Support

Last night, in response to the many posters placed around the campus, over 15 Arts and Science students turned up for the first meeting of the Dawson Arts and Science Society. This represented at least one forty-fifth of the total number of 450 Science students presently enrolled at Dawson.

Of the agenda for the evening were several items of importance including the election of 3 officials and the formation of the social committee. Paul Cullen, the president of the group, stated that he was very gloomy at such a poor turnout since it meant cancellation of much urgent business which would have to be carried over to the following meeting.

One of the disappointed students who took the trouble to show up for the meeting observed that the students at Dawson had turned out in large numbers to elect the officers of the Arts and Science Society during the recent elections held on the campus. He then went on to point out that there was no use for elections, candidates or Society if Dawson students were not prepared to support them.

Dr. Fleming To Address Dawsonites

Dr. Fleming, secretary of the Faculty of Medicine at McGill will speak on "The Problems of Selecting Medical Students" as a feature in the program of the Dawson Pre-Med Society to be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the Co-Weds Corner.

The lecturer has spoken on this subject many times and therefore his speech should prove to be very interesting as well as informative. Following the address the floor will be open for questions from the audience.

At the first meeting of the Society the future doctors elected a temporary executive to hold office until one week before the end of this school term. At that time a permanent executive will be elected. The present executive consists of Hy Reiser as president, Len Sparks as vice-president, Ram Boodansingh, secretary-treasurer, Bernie Lax as the cultural representative and Henri Gault, social representative.

The society has announced that it is hoped that any Pre-Meds who have not as yet enrolled will do so at this meeting.

NOTICE

A meeting of the McGill Sailing Club will be held in the Union at 5 o'clock today. Election of officers, reports of summer activities and planning of the winter work are on the agenda. Movies will be shown of the SLVYRA regatta this summer. All past members and students desiring to join are invited.

This is how the NEW LOOK situation was pictured out at The University of Manitoba. The happy-go-lucky males on the campus, some of whom were soured by the distinct change in style in women's dress, ranted and raved at the co-eds. The women, most of them defending the prevalent appearance of co-eds, did their level best to convince them to the contrary.

In order to have a battle royal over the matter and at the same time have an enjoyable dance, one of the campus's brighter lights hit upon the idea of throwing a "Hemline Hop." Next step was to wise up some ingenious photographer who proceeded to round up three typical gals on the campus. His work produced the picture shown above.

The plane is a blue and grey S-51 with seating capacity for a pilot and three passengers. It has a cruising speed of 80 m.p.h. and can climb from sea level at the rate of 1,200 feet per minute. (C.U.P. Photo-Walt Mackenzie.)

Maritime Universities Hold NFCUS Planning Conference

(By Canadian University Press)

Delegates from all the Maritimes Universities except Acadia met at Mount Allison University for a N.F.C.U.S. Conference, on Sunday, Nov. 23.

With Mr. Robinson as Chairman, discussions got under way concerning Maritimes intercollegiate problems and relations. At the end of the afternoon session, six excellent proposals had been made which will be brought up at the Christmas Conference.

"Finances" brought forth a discussion concerning the raising of the student levy for the travel pool. One delegate proposed forming a body to organize student employment during the holidays with every university being given details concerning vacation jobs.

Although the Maritime Universities' request for reduction in the prices of admission to their respective theatres had been previously rejected, the proposal will be brought up again at the Christmas Conference.

Al Lomas from Dalhousie University, who had travelled through most of the European countries this summer, suggested that European students through NFCUS should have an opportunity to come to Canadian or American universities. NFCUS delegates also suggested setting up a committee to send clothing and other vital necessities to European countries.

The questions "should NFCUS affiliate with I.U.S." and "whether NFCUS should have a national full-time president for one year" were also discussed. These questions are written on the Christmas Agenda sent out by the national president.

Dawson Gets Living Cost Questionnaire

On Thursday, December 4th, the Dawson Veterans Society will distribute a cost-of-living questionnaire to all veterans attending school under D.V.A. grants. The questionnaire will be handed out at the entrance to the mess hall, at dinner time, and will be collected at the exit.

The same questionnaire will be filled out by student veterans attending the other member schools of the Montreal and District Council of Student Veterans' Societies. These will include besides Dawson, (Continued on Page 4.)

Election Candidates

All platforms, pictures and pen sketches of all candidates to the Students Executive Council must be presented at The Daily office by 5.00 p.m. today. All written material submitted must be typed and double spaced and not exceeding 300 words for the platform and 100 words for the pen sketch. Pictures must be 3 x 4 inches or larger and must be a glossy print. Any material which does not conform to these regulations will not appear in The Daily.

'Dentists' Met To See Films Last Night

The third monthly meeting of the McGill Undergraduate Dental Society was held last night at the RCNC and RCDC Armoury. The Society members were the guests of the Montreal Branch of the Royal Canadian Dental Corps, Lt.-Col. L. E. Kent, M.B.E., the commanding officer.

During the course of the evening, three films of a very pertinent nature were shown, dealing with the type of dental care offered to the members of the Canadian armed services during the war.

The three films dealt with prosthetics, Crown and Bridge, and Maxillo-Facial Aspects of Dentistry. These were duplicates of actual operations performed in the dental clinics by the RCDC on service personnel.

From an educational point of view, all three films displayed a very high educational and technical value to the dental students.

There were many members of the McGill Dental Society present at this meeting to witness the moving pictures. Refreshments were served to all members and guests.

Intercollegiate Debate to Be Held

Vets' Wives Offered Course in Nutrition

A course in Nutrition may be made available after Christmas which will be of special interest to the veteran's wife who desires that her husband should become enthusiastic over her cooking.

The course will consist of twelve periods of one and a half hours each. Five periods will be reserved for lectures and discussion; five for cookery demonstration and two periods in which dinner will be prepared and served by the students.

The full schedule of the proposed course may be found at the Student Counsellor's Office, Room 11 of the Arts Building. Veterans' wives who are interested are requested to leave their names at this office. Husbands, don't neglect to remind your wives.

A further item which will be of interest to both husband and wife is that the cost of the course will be low, and may possibly be met from other sources.

Chemists Meet Thurs. to Hear Dr. Thomson

Thursday at 5.00 p.m. in the Chemistry Building, Dr. David L. Thomson, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies of McGill, will give us an insight into the complex field of biochemistry. His lecture is entitled "Anti-vitamins and the Relation Between Chemical Constitution and Physiological Action."

Dr. Thomson was born in Scotland in 1901 and obtained the B.Sc. and

M.A. degrees from the University of Aberdeen. Prior to extensive studies in France, Switzerland and Austria, he received his doctorate in biochemistry from Cambridge University in England. In 1928, Dr. Thomson came to McGill as lecturer in biochemistry and was promoted to a professorship in 1937. He became chairman of this department four years later, to be appointed Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research the following year.

Dr. Thomson, a Fellow of the Chemical Institute of Canada, has done research dealing mainly with problems in endocrinology and metabolism, but in recent years the field of nutrition has received his special attention.

All students in Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, and Biochemistry are specially invited to attend.

European Youth

MR. GERARD PELLETIER, President of the Quebec Federation of Youth Movement, is shown above talking to the French-Canadian youth in the Grill Room at 8 p.m. on "European Youth" to the French Society.

He recently returned from a tour of European universities. He has had a long career in student youth organizations, being a former president of the Catholics Student Youth Society, and former secretary of I.S.S. and World Student Relief. In addition, to his present position he writes for Le Devoir.

The meeting will be followed by a question period. Refreshments and dancing will round out the programme for the first evening of activities sponsored by the French Society this year.

McMaster Govt. Loses Milk Vote

By Canadian University Press

In a recent session of the McMaster Parliament, a move by the government for the municipal control of milk distribution was defeated by three votes.

The debate was opened by the Prime Minister, Helen Anderson, who stated that, in view of the recent increases in the price of milk, the time had come for drastic action to be taken. During the war, the government, by means of subsidies and propaganda, had greatly increased the consumption of milk, but since decontrol and the subsequent rise in the price of milk, consumption in Ontario alone had fallen off ten per cent. This, she emphasized, was serious when we consider that milk is the most important food substance.

The Hon. W. T. Story, Leader of the Opposition, claimed that the government had submitted no case. What the public was interested in was the reduction in price. Would there be such a drop? He thought not. He warned them that they were dealing with the future of one of the greatest industries in Canada.

Other speakers also pointed out that public ownership would involve a large outlay of capital which would tend to keep the price up, and that it would only be replacing one monopoly by another.

Law Student Named Consul By Panama

A McGill Law student has been appointed to the post of Honorary Consul-General in Canada for the Republic of Panama, marking the first time that a student has ever held a responsible consular post.

The Panamanian Ministry of Foreign Affairs announced yesterday, that Jose De Nobille—a first year law student—has been commissioned as Panamas first Consul-General to Canada, and that he would shortly open that nations consular office in Montreal. Until this appointment, the American consulate has been transacting all Panamanian affairs in Canada.

"I feel that it is a signal honour," said the newly-appointed Consul-General, "that I should be the first university student ever to have become the accredited representative of a foreign power." Senor De Nobille added that one of his first objectives will be the establishment of a closer relationship between Canadian and Panamanian students through the Council for Inter-American Affairs.

As well as, studying law at McGill, Senor De Nobille is professor of Romantic Languages at The University of Montreal—a position which he has held for several years. An inveterate world traveler, the new Consul-General speaks eleven languages with equal facility, and is a recognized authority on International Law.

Senor De Nobille also announced that two other law students, Diego Soden and K. C. Mackay would assist him in his new duties, and that an official inaugural reception is planned for next week.

Vets Hold 'Do' In Currie Gym Tomorrow Nite

Membership tickets for the McGill Veterans' Society, at the price of 25 cents each, will be available tomorrow evening at the Vets' Do, Mark 1, from five to eight o'clock.

Delay in announcement of the event, first Vets' Society social affair of the year, resulted from difficulty in ascertaining the date most convenient for the McGill C.O.T.C. Mess at the Currie Gym.

Vets' Dos have been regular features of Society activities for the past two years, and the present executive plans to continue this policy and to make these events as attractive as possible. It is emphasized that all veterans—members and non-members alike—and their friends, are welcome. It is hoped the executive announced, that as many vets as possible will take this opportunity to become members, so that the society will be as representative of student vet opinion as possible.

The executive also announced that plans for a general meeting to be held sometime before Christmas, at which the executive will outline its program and announce matters pertaining to the forthcoming Conference of Student Veterans, are in progress. The date of the general meeting will be announced in the near future.

Arctic Institute Reveals Secrets of Unknown North

(By Canadian University Press.)

Few Canadians realize that 2,700 miles north of Montreal there are Canadian mountains that have never been climbed, but which rival the Rockies in height. These rugged and snow-covered mountains of north Ellesmere Island, one of Canada's Arctic possessions, are said to be even more impressive than the flat white field of frozen ocean, cracked open in places and shining brilliantly in the high midnight sun, which comprises the polar region.

The Canadian Government is doing a great deal of practical work in the Arctic lands. These regions include three Canadian islands, each of which is larger than England, yet they are often omitted from maps of Canada. Meteorological and wireless stations are being established for the navigating of planes and the sending out of expeditions for the mapping and photographing of the land.

There are many features of the Arctic regions of Canada besides cold that are interesting in themselves, and many that are interesting because they have wide effects on regions outside the Arctic. Dr. Wilson believes that Canada is in a unique position to study these. The geographic North Pole and the magnetic North Pole are physically interesting as is the maximum auroral belt which effects radio propagation, and many problems of how men, plants, and animals exist in and adjust themselves to the extreme cold of the Arctic.

It is little known that the whole of the Arctic lands are not continually covered with ice. While there are ice-caps on the mountain ranges, most of the land enjoys a brief summer period with vegetation. Musk-ox and caribou inhabit the most northern parts of the Arctic lands.

The use of planes has opened up the North and it is becoming increasingly easy to get into the Arctic lands. Now that landing fields and buildings are being established at some of the weather stations, it is becoming more and more possible to visit the Arctic quickly and in comfort to carry out a number of studies. A recent flight from Fairbanks via Ellesmere Island to the North Pole and back to Edmonton took only 22½ hours!

As chairman of the Arctic Institute of North America, Dr. J. T. Wilson, O.B.E., Ph.D., professor of geophysics at University of Toronto, tells us that in the past two years the Arctic Institute has supported 20 parties, most of these during the past year, when, from Bering Strait to Labrador, studies were made of living Eskimos and Indians, botany, insects, physiography, oceanography, animals, geology, and other interesting fields of research.

Dr. Wilson was also one of the organizers and executors of the Exercise Musk-ox in the Winter of 1945-46. He described the expedition as an effort to familiarize the Canadian Army with operations in the northern part of their own country, but stressed the fact that it was not planned on strategic or tactical lines, but was, as far as possible, a fact-finding and scientific expedition.

OUR FINAL DRIVE

Seldom are McGill students asked to contribute money to any of the diverse worthwhile charities that exist in today's tempestuous society. Even less often are we requested to donate funds to a project which shall directly benefit us in the years to come. Nevertheless, one of these rare occasions is upon us this week, as once more, and for the final time, subscriptions for the Rink Auditorium Campaign are being solicited on the campus.

To newcomers at McGill, and it is to this particular group that this last appeal is being directed especially, a few words of explanation should prove pertinent at this point. For the past several years, the Graduates' Society has conducted a spirited drive to raise enough cash to erect a suitable living memorial to those men and women of McGill who perished serving their country in World War II. Originally it was decided that this War Memorial should take the form of a Memorial Hall-Swimming Pool. The enthusiastic response to this initial appeal was so encouraging, that it was decided to extend the campaign to include the gathering of funds to build a Rink-Auditorium and complete McGill's long-planned sports centre.

The objective set was $750,000. Of this staggering total, $733,000 has already been collected or pledged. This has been accomplished only through the unselfish toil and superb generosity of both students and graduates, most of whom will never have the opportunity of taking advantage of these new facilities when they are finally constructed. The chances are however, that this year's freshman class will be fortunate enough to see at least partial completion of this memorial project before they graduate. They will be the ones who shall be able to participate in the widened scope of athletic activities made possible by these new buildings.

The present appeal on the campus has a minimum objective of $1,000, and canvassing will be carried out from December 3rd to December 10th. A $2 contribution per freshman will send the drive over the top, and no one can say that a $2 investment in an undertaking such as this is exorbitant. But whatever the size of a student's donation, the matter of primary importance is that he does subscribe. The committee conducting the campaign is aiming at 100 per cent participation of the freshman class, both at Dawson and McGill, in order that the Graduates Society may realize that their highly commendable efforts on our behalf are fully recognized, and supplemented by the undergraduates.

The need for a Rink-Auditorium such as the one now envisaged is obvious to any observant spectator of the McGill sports scene. The advantages that will accrue to the undergraduate upon the erection of such an arena have been enumerated time and again, and need not be repeated here. When the swimming pool and indoor rink are built, they will, when combined with Molsop Stadium and Currie Gym, supply McGill with one of the most modern and comprehensive athletic centres on the continent. This is the final opportunity for those who have not heretofore contributed to do so. Take advantage of it.—N.W.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Congratulations

Editor of The Daily,
Dear Sir,—
In Monday's Daily, I read that The Vets society sent two delegates to a meeting of the "Roll back prices" committee, sponsored by the Montreal Consumers League. I also read that these two delegates, namely Peter Kohl, vice-president of the society and John T. Sangster, not only approved the four point program drawn up by the Consumers League to fight the ever increasing costs of living, but also moved that a fifth point be added—i.e. a subsidized low cost housing program to meet the needs of the middle and low income groups. Well done! Congratulations to the Vets society and especially to these two delegates!

This, I think, is a correct policy rather than trying to segregate ourselves and become, as in the past year, a small isolated group crying in the wilderness.

May this good work be continued and may there be more people like Peter Kohl and John Sangster interested in Vets PROBLEMS and taking constructive methods to solve them!

Sincerely,
CAMILLE DIONNE, Arts II.

Dear Sir:—

I would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who nominated me.

Bread & Misery

Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir,—
We would be led to believe by Mr. Lionel Albert and his friends that there are only two kinds of people left in the world: 1—Communist, who are true patriots and beyond all criticism; 2—Fascists, who are responsible for the world's misery.

Mr. Albert now informs us (Daily, Dec. 1st) that General de Gaulle, a man who recently finished fighting a war against Fascism, is himself a Fascist—so Mr. Albert says—although nobody in his right mind is likely to believe him.

Moreover, Mr. Albert goes on to say that General de Gaulle's supporters are all former collaborators. Are we supposed to believe that these people in wartime were at once supporting General de Gaulle's resistance army and collaborating with the enemy? I say that this is all very confusing.

Why is there an increased Communist vote in France today, asks Mr. Albert, if not as a tribute to the 75,000 Communist martyrs of the resistance?

No, the truth is that the French and Italian people, in their suffering and despair, have turned to an ideology that, though stealing their souls, promises Russian bread. And (Continued on Page 4.)

You're off to see the Wizard...

This Saturday afternoon, Dec. 6, at 2:30 in Victoria Hall. The magical Wizard of Oz, beloved of generations of children, has been adapted for the stage by the Theatre for Young Folk, the children's group of the Canadian Art Theatre.

The wonderful Wizard, in our opinion, has always been a superior character in comparison to Snow White. The Wizard, by virtue of his wizardry, throws a cloak of magic over all his proceedings, and the activities of all he comes in contact with, which is consistently out of this world, in realm of pure imagination. The queer creatures with whom he comes in contact are 'horrible or delightful, and Oz is a most wondrous region. The Wizard of Oz is highly recommended even as adult fare, as all-persuading, all-pervading fantasy. Reserved seats $1.00.

Other seats: adults 75c, children 50c or 35c.

Youth at the Helm

Last year four young Montreal students took to themselves a not-too-modern car and trailer, and set off on a tour of the three Americas, thereby revealing a spirit of adventure rare among Canadian youth. Their trip, which might almost be called unique, and was always interesting, and often exciting, took them across the United States, through Mexico and Central America to South America winding up in Brazil.

M. Jacques Hebert, one of these adventurers, will talk about the highlights of their wonderful experience on December 9th at the Plateau Hall.

The talk, which will be given in French, will start at 8:30 p.m. L'Union de Latins d'Amérique sponsors the evening, and there is an additional attraction in Miss Claudette Jarry, who will sing Latin-American songs. (Continued on Page 4.)

The Veteran

by Stanley Mann

He smiled and shook his wild brown hair, Disdaining those who stopped to stare, And throwing back his proud young head

He watched them leave the path he sped, Young, lovely women glanced his way, And men in groups, he heard to say:

"There aren't many such as he," To call their friends that they might see.

But he, with lip thrust forth and eye Ablaze, moved quickly, skimming by.

Too proud to heed the whispered word He looked as though he had not heard.

GERARD PELLETIER

by Jean Pouliot

Gerard Pelletier was recently elected President of the Quebec Federation of Youth Movements.

He returned last summer from a two-year tour of European universities which he conducted in his capacity as Field Secretary for the World Student Relief Federation, and seemed very pleased to give a Canadian student the results of his findings in Europe in 1946 and 1947.

Mr. Pelletier said his work involved extensive tours of the universities in war-ravaged countries, enquiries as to the relative need of each, and the distribution of relief funds to student administration. The highest item on demand in Europe was that for books—Mr. Pelletier informed us that the shortage of contemporary books in Europe is appalling. Next highest in demand were boots and shoes, of which students are seriously lacking; and the third part of the grant was devoted to the creation of medical centres to provide free X-ray examinations to University students, among whom, Mr. Pelletier said, "there is a considerable incidence of tuberculosis."

"Positive Neutrality"

"Ours is a non-confessional, non-political organization," the I.S.S. man said; "positive neutrality is emphasized among all members and helpers." He added that together with this greatly publicized "positive neutrality," there is another slogan, "creative tension," which, he said, means that the assembled students "try to develop constructive plans and positive ideas from those very differences of creed and opinion."

M. Pelletier's European tour involved visits to and field work in Great Britain and Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, and Czechoslovakia. The student youth of the countries he visited is conscious of its role in youth reorganization, Mr. Pelletier added, precisely, "there is a dire necessity for unity." This is the central problem now confronting European students.

They and Us

Although European students have administrative and executive councils on a pattern roughly similar to that ruling our organizations of this type, the main difference is that in Europe, much more is left to student initiative. "If the students want a cafeteria, the students organize a cafeteria," the young French-Canadian said, "and not the University administration." The students are left on their own, and at Prague University for instance, students cannot be promoted each year unless they have an average of 60 per cent and a certain number of hours of manual work done on the reconstruction of university buildings.

Alma Mater vs. Hollywood and Joinville

The problem on which European students are most anxious at present, Mr. Pelletier said, is that of establishing the exact role of university in the contemporary nation. He explained by saying that "the university is now, in the nation, the theoretical centre of culture. Theoretical only. In practice, Hollywood and Joinville in France are the basis of the popular culture, and have definitely more influence on (Continued on Page 4.)

Starting his career with a conductorship at the Berlin State Opera, he pursued this dazzling "apprenticeship" from 1920 to 1925. Thereafter he held various distinguished appointments in Germany, for example, he had charge for three years of the Dresden Philharmonic. He was a frequent guest conductor at Frankfurt, Stuttgart and Hamburg, and from 1932 onwards a regular visitor to Amsterdam.

In January, 1934, he was called to Buenos Aires, where he not only conducted in the famous Teatro Colon, not only gave symphony concerts, but also found himself a very lovely Argentine bride.

Weissmann did not come to the States until 1938, but, after a highly successful debut with the New York Philharmonic, his high quality was quickly recognized. In 1939 he was appointed to re-organize the New Jersey Symphony, and it is as conductor of that body that he takes time off to visit us in Montreal.

The program he has chosen consists of three works: Corelli's "Christmas Concerto," Schoenberg's "Transfigured Night" and Mozart's "Jupiter" symphony. The latter, it may be pointed out, will be heard under exactly those orchestral conditions for which the composer intended it.

Tickets for this concert, or for the whole season, are obtainable in the "Little Symphony's" offices on Peel Street.

CULTURE AND THE C.B.C.

Tonight the CBC will take a Step! At long last it has realized that although the average mental age of the radio audience may be fourteen, there are listeners who would like to hear something stimulating for a change. As a result it has decided on "a special new program service for Canadian listeners. Starting on December 3 the whole of each Wednesday evening on the Trans-Canada network, beginning at 7:30, will be devoted to programs that are stimulating, substantial, different, and at times more demanding on the attention of the listener."

This series will be introduced tonight by a talk by Professor Arthur L. Phelps of the Department of English. Professor Phelps was formerly General Supervisor for the CBC International Service, and is one of Canada's foremost literary critics, whose radio talks on both CBC and American networks are well known on this continent. Currently at McGill he lectures on English prose since Milton, and early Canadian literature.

The rest of tonight's program consists of a broadcast by a Vancouver orchestra conducted by John Avison, featuring a sonatina by the contemporary Australian composer Arthur Benjamin; a forum on the possible effects of national planning on democratic processes; a musical comedy called "The Gallant Greenhorn" especially written for the occasion and concerned with the days when the west was young; and a violin recital by Kathleen Parlow, which will include a performance of Sibelius' "Sonatina for Violin and Piano".

And that shows the general distribution of program material for the month of December—half an hour of Symphony orchestra, a quarter of an hour's talk, half an hour's forum, an hour's play, and a half-hour recital.

The high point in the schedule seems to be a performance of T. S. Eliot's verse play "Murder in the Cathedral" on December 10, at 9 p.m. This will be the first time it has been heard over the air in Canada.

It will be produced by Andrew Allan, who produces the Stage 48 shows on Sunday nights. The performance will be prefaced by a talk about the play by Desmond Macarthy, the well-known British critic. This broadcast should be of especial interest to students of contemporary English literature (a warning to anyone thinking of taking English 23 next year—it's on the reading list!).

The recitalists include Witold Malcuzyński (attention Mr. Kohol!), Albert Pratz, Giuseppe Moschetti, and Nell Chotem.

Aside from the performance of "Murder in the Cathedral" these are all things one might have heard over the CBC before it got the big idea—but they were always on odd times and odd days. Now things are simplified, if you like this sort of listening—stay home Wednesdays. We guarantee you'll have visitors, but it's worth the effort. W. D. M.

Senior Redmen Face Gunners in M.B.L. Fixture

OF CONDITIONING AND RINKS

After plowing a three goal lead and almost losing the game to a fighting U. of M. puck squad at the Forum last Friday night, the Redmen of the Old Alma Mater became the subject of much criticism for their jaded looking performance of the final period. Many were the loud and slightly sarcastic comments that the McGillians were not in good shape and should not have been as tired as they appeared to be. Some of this criticism is no doubt justified but a clarification of the situation will show wherein any blame should lie.

The Red pucksters are victims of circumstances completely beyond their control. These simply are that they have no ice which they can claim as their own and as a result have to take what few hours are allotted them by the Forum. The hourly total varies from week to week, but as a rule allows for only two practice sessions between games. No team, no matter how hard it practices (and the Redmen do practice hard), can get into the condition it should be in with only half the number of training hours it should have.

The situation goes deeper and actually affects the senior puck squad more seriously than merely lack of practice facilities for themselves. McGill also has intermediate and Junior squads who should normally be the spawning grounds of the future seniors, but, due to this lack of home ice, much promising talent goes undeveloped for want of sufficient opportunity to get on skates. Contrast this condition to the one that prevails at Queens and Varsity, where the colleges own their own arenas and as a result have all the ice time they could possibly want.

It may be pointed out that the Gaels, even with their own home rink are not winning any championships. They have, however, within the last few years made tremendous strides in that direction and have vastly improved their calibre of play. At the same time, the head men in that vicinity have made no bones about the fact that they are out for pennants and they are not particularly fussy in what sport. On the other hand, the Blues from Toronto are a known quantity and seem to keep bobbing up with top notch teams in monotonous profusion.

Fortunately, for the future of hockey at McGill, the Rink Auditorium seems to be in the process of being started. In our estimation, this will be none to soon, and as a matter of fact is a few years too late. Possibly, with the advent of this latest structure onto the campus scene, a new era of McGill hockey supremacy will be ushered in.

RED NAMES IN THE NEWS

The Redminors, showed a lot of potential power in their 7-2 win over Cote St. Paul last Saturday. This was their first win and left Coach Wilf Anderson with a well-deserved feeling of accomplishment. Having suffered three straight shellackings, the young Redmen went into the tilt with undisguised defeatist attitudes. By the end of the first period, though they were trailing by one goal, they knew they could win and went out and proved their point with six markers in succession. Defenseman Ross Parsons has been a tower of strength in all their contests, and for our money is the best man in the league in this department. A sure fire prospect for bigger company when he is eligible.

Sandy Edmison, Al Peppard and Bob Russel are other Juniors that have been showing well. Russel counted four times and has a blistering clothesline drive to the corners. Edmison, seems to have great promise, but it still out of condition and needs lot more hockey before he shows what he really has. Peppard, who was out with the seniors at the start of the season, is a digger though tending to relax on the backchecking.

Andre Charest and Linemate Flynn of Les Carabins, are students at Ste. Mary's College and play for their Junior squad as well as starring in the intercollegiate. Charest is slated for McGill next year where he intends to go into Dentistry. The young Quebecer shone for the Aces in the Senior Group last year and is an asset to any club. . . Goalle Lahale, also of the Blue and Gold, wears a first basemen's mit on his catching hand with no cuff on it. . . Ex Redmen are still in circulation. . . Gino Pierson with the Hershey Bears. . . Danny Porteous in Washington. . . Joe Pettit now sporting the four Aces of the Citadel club. . . High scoring Georgie Hale now pulling teeth in St. Lambert with his father. . . Babe Thompson retired. . . Dr. Bob Brodick now a shareholder as well as puckchaser for the Lachine Rapides.

Irving Phillips Playoffs Still Now Coaching Undecided in McGill Boxers Floor Hockey

By JACK GOLDWATER

Boxing is back in full swing at McGill this semester with capable coach Irving Phillips at the helm. Irv, having relinquished his post at the Y.M.H.A., a post he held for almost a decade, producing champions like Max Berger and Eli Brown, will now be able to devote all his attention to regaining the Gibson Trophy for the battling Redmen. A lot of new talent has shown up at the B.W.F. room skirmishes of late and Phillips is very keen over the crop. However, while some weights are crammed with top notch material, there is a decided dearth in the 165, 155, and heavyweight classes. As the coming Athletic nights will feature boxing this year Phillips has issued a call for all those interested in the manly art of self defence to put in an appearance so that they can be readied for future bouts at these events.

CHAMP AT DAWSON

It is interesting to note that last year's 165 lb. intercollegiate champ, Frank Creaghan, presently coaching fistic hopefuls at Dawson, is finalist in the Palestre Nationale show in his class. These matches are being keenly eyed by Olympic heads as the bulk of the Canadian Olympic Boxing team is participating in the meet. Creaghan meets the winner of last night's Walt Morrison-Mike Sobel semi-final in a bout that promises plenty of action. Morrison will be remembered as the lad who decisively defeated Bill Adams in one of last year's Athletic Festivals and is regarded as a good, tough boy. Sobel, probably the best prospect of last year is regarded in fight circles as a stiff puncher, so that Creaghan will be meeting a crafty, well-trained opponent when he crosses mitts with either one tonight. This bout along with an outstanding eard is well worth taking in.

In a close checking game last night in the McGill Floor Hockey League the Plumbers and Alkies battled to a 2-all tie to send the Alkies into first place by a one point margin. The Plumbers by virtue of the tie find themselves a mere point ahead of the Combines in the last playoff berth. The Commercials and Combines battle tonight in the final game of the schedule. In the second game the Flashes, led by Marty Rosen's 4 goals downed the Phys Eds 8-4.

One of the reasons that the Plumbers were able to hold the Alkies was the sensational goal-tending of Bob Denman. Blessed with a certain amount of luck and a keen eye Denman stopped what appeared to be sure goals for the Alkies. Scoring for the Alkies was done by Shaw and Laughton with Telling and Woodyatt accounting for the Plumbers' markers.

RECORD TIED

The second game was highlighted by Rosen's 4 goals, tying Russel's record. Gorman, of Flashes and Russel each scored two goals to bring their season's total to 9 each, one point behind the leader, Jeannotte. Other scorers were Menard for the Phys Eds with 2 and Winter and Rennie, of Flashes with one each.

Thrills are in store tonight when the Combines and Commercials do battle with the former needing at least a tie to remain in the playoffs. Also at stake is the league

Four Games Fixed For Gym Tonight; Red Squads Ready

By MARCEL BALTZAN

Saturday may be hockey night in Canada but Wednesday is definitely basketball night at McGill. Featuring the evening entertainment, in which three McGill and two Dawson squads see action, will be a senior MBL contest between the 37th Regiment Gunners and Coach Howie Ryan's Redmen. The Red seniors will be seeking their fourth straight win, their second in MBL play (the McGill MBL loss was incurred by the intermediate A team).

The senior five will present a slightly altered line-up for this evening's fray, with two Bobs, Forand and Moffat being promoted from the intermediate ranks. On the debit side of the ledger we note that Charlie Goldbloom is ailing and may not play. A quick glance at the starting line-up reveals that the high-scoring trio of Sam "Slick" Roth, George "Flick" Davidson, and Myer "Chick" Bloom up front, with Fraser and possibly Goldbloom on guard.

The game starts at 9.15, following the Central "Y"-YMHA contest. Other games at the Currie Gym are: at 6.45 in the Intermediate "A" League McGill meets Dawson, while at 9.00 in the small gym McGill faces Macdonald in an intermediate CIAU tilt.

BASKETBALL SET-UP

Due to the great number of teams this year it is quite natural that a great deal of confusion has arisen regarding the McGill Basketball set-up. We will now try to list the teams systematically in an attempt to clarify the situation.

Starting at the top there is the number one McGill team which operates under the tutelage of Coach Howie Ryan.

At the start of the season it was thought that this quintet would participate only in the Golden Ball Tourney, Senior Intercollegiate League and exhibition games with selected American Colleges, while a second Red team under coach Ronnie Rutherford would play in the Senior MBL. This plan was still in effect at the opening of MBL play. However when the YMHA decisively defeated Rutherford's Red in the opening MBL game it was thought that McGill would be a "weak sister". To remedy this situation the Senior Intercollegiate squad has replaced the McGill seconds in the MBL.

Rutherford's team was then entered in the Montreal Intermediate "A" basketball league, making a successful debut last week as they defeated the Comfort Clothes Crew.

BLOOM IN DECEMBER

MYER BLOOM, sophomore forward for the Senior Redmen, is atop the college scoring list, in M.B.L. play. Bloom, who bagged an even 16 in an encounter against Central "Y" last week, is featured on the top McGill attacking trio with Sam Roth and George Davidson.

Ryan, himself is in charge of the fourth McGill team, a junior squad. Dawson College is represented in the basket ball world by two points. Their first squad with Steve Armstrong is still recovering from a sprained ankle. Fighting Jim Shea should centre off, and as was prophesied, he will be the man to watch in the contest to follow. The two forwards will be (Continued on Page 4.)

Dawson Cage Entries See Action; Soccer, Swimming in Full Swing

The Dawson Sports picture is humming with activity as both Intermediate and Intercollegiate M.B.L. entries play, tonight in away basketball encounters, the first scores are in from the new Dawson-invented Indoor Soccer and an Intercollegiate Swimming team is being formed.

The Intercollegiate-Intermediate squad invades the University of Montreal at 8 p.m. to open its schedule against the newly formed U. of M. crew, whereas Jolly "Doc" Holmes' Intermediate M.B.L. entry tackles the McGill men at Sir Arthur Currie starting at 6.45.

Last Wednesday night the Dawson squad took their first game with a close 31-29 count over McGill at the Sir Arthur Currie Gym in Intercollegiate Intermediate competition. They show promise of being even better against U. of M. tonight.

Steve Armstrong, Dawson's efficient "A" Squad coach, has been prepping the boys with several effective and fast-breaking plays. All these attacks stem from one circular formation, and by slight variation these plays can break either a zone or man to man defence.

The starting lineup for Dawson tonight will probably be Keeler and Armstrong in the guard slots. Lately these two boys have been playing very well together, even though Armstrong is still recovering from a sprained ankle. Fighting Jim Shea should centre off, and as was prophesied, he will be the man to watch in the contest to follow. The two forwards will be (Continued on Page 4.)

Stevens and Obeck Head Coaches' Group

Vik Obeck, coach of McGill's football Redmen, is back in the news again, and this time it is as Quebec representative of a newly formed body, the Canadian Rugby Football Coaches' Association.

Returning from an organizational meeting in Toronto, Obeck revealed that representatives from Quebec and Ontario had gotten together with the purpose of organizing a body whose function would be to improve the brand of football across the Dominion. While representatives were only present at this meeting from the two-mentioned provinces, contacts have been made and plans have been formed for the inclusion of the other seven groups in the Association.

Warren Stevens, Director of Athletics of the University of Toronto, has been named head of this association, whose immediate aim will be to organize the country's football setup.

Senior, Junior Water Poloists To Play Tonite

Both McGill's water polo squads hope to reverse their past losing streaks tonight in a league double-header at the MAAA Pool. The senior aquamen take on the once-defeated YMHA team, and the Junior entry meets the squad from Sir George Williams College.

The senior team must beat the "Y" Blues to end their Provincial league season in first place. In their last outing, the Redmen emerged victorious over the Mount Royal boys with a 9-2 count. However, the "Y" have been practising heavily, and the Redmen have slipped from their excellent early season form.

Coach Rose has altered his line-up after the results of last week's games, and hopes that the new combination will succeed. Irwin Fineberg will be reinstated with Bob Mahon and Cooper on the starting line-up. Bill Osterman is to be moved up from the juniors on the half position, and he will possibly announce changes in the defence soon.

Two of the intercollegiate squad are being kept with the junior men in an effort to cop the tilt.

A Smith-Corona can take it!

Not that we recommend massaging our body with a hammer, but, honestly, you'd hardly believe some of the stories of Smith-Corona's durability that have come out of the war. We do, of course, but then we're prejudiced. So are most owners — favorably.

Don Walter and Mac Macdonald will line up with Jim Ross on the initial forward line; and Bob Berry, Joe Dickstein and Bob Johnson will team-up as the defence. Grey Austin, with two shut-outs to his credit will be after his third in eight tilts. Hal Corrigan and Pete Cameron will be alternated on the defence.

Junior game is scheduled to start at 8.15 with the senior tilt at 9.00 p.m. Jim Rose wants both teams to report fifteen minutes before game time, and no exceptions will be allowed.

DAWSON RESULTS

From out Dawson way, we have been informed that the style of floor hockey played by our country cousins has greatly improved. The results of games played last Monday night show that Night-Caps defeated Odds and Sods 4-2 with Urquhart and Weaver starring.

The Demons and Murderer's row also saw action with Zemel of the Demons turning in a fine goal-tending job behind a strong defence with the final score 4-0 for Demons. Cynners defeated Iron Men 1-0 and Mountain Boys defeated the Manglers 3-0 in two other games played at the Dawson Gym. Monday night. Last night saw Skunk Hollowers defeat the Scorers 2-1 while Stallions and Nutcrackers were battling to a 1-1 tie. In the night cap the Booby Boys defeated the Goober Boys 4-2 with Leslie performing the hat trick.

M.B.L. ENTRY
The M.B.L. Dawson entry unsuccessful so far in their two starts, will try to break into the win column with a victory over the newly entered McGill intermediates, formerly the Senior Red and White entry. Probable starters for coach Holmes will be Jones and Tubman at guard, with Livingstone, Popovich and Pinard on the forward line. Observers are sure that with the playing of more aggressive basketball the boys are sure to improve.

WOMEN'S UNION

The Women's Union office will be open from 1:30 p.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

There will be a buffet supper served in the RVC cafeteria on Sunday evening, Dec. 7. A ticket that admits a couple can be bought for 50c. This event is to give co-eds, especially those that live in residence or in rooms, a congenial place to entertain their friends. The refreshments will be similar to those served at the Freshman Reception supper, and students are asked to buy their tickets by Thursday, so that the right amount of food will be available.

Through donations of food and clothing brought in by McGill co-eds, 12 parcels have been sent to Dr. Barnardo's Homes in England. These homes care for orphans and other underprivileged children. The Women's Union Social Service Committee packed and mailed the parcels, and the executive wishes to thank them for the dispatch with which this job was done.

Something new has been added to Dawson in the form of a swimming team for meets with surrounding colleges and to supply material for the Senior McGill Swim Team. Tryouts will be held this week in Montreal, so all those interested should get in touch with Manager Pete Isseman, or leave their name at the Athletic Office.

INDOOR SOCCER

The Dawson indoor soccer season got off to a fine start last Wednesday, Nov. 26, when three successful games were run off. The teams played five men to a side with one substitute and found this to be a good arrangement, though the Rules Committee may change to four men to a side and two substitutes, thus providing a faster and more wide open game.

In the first match of the evening the Mustangs, under the leadership of Abdul Kader, took the highly favoured Sikhs into camp by a 2-1 score. Floyer, of "Soccer Dynamos" fame, scored the losers lone tally while S. Brookes netted two for the victors.

The second contest ended in a 2-2 tie, with Sears-Carter scoring twice for the Hemboys, while Chin and Bullock notched one apiece for the Pakistan Patriots.

Another upset occurred in the 3rd game when Bill Green's Indians outscored the Wolverines 5-3. Shinning for the winners were Roper with 3 tallies and Green with 2 goals to his credit. McLean, Knight, and V. Brookes scored one each for the losers.

The league shows great promise and each team will play one game a week with the schedule running till the end of February.

Paging Mr. Daniels

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,
During the recent Dawson elections The Daily criticized the lack of student interest and among other things the election rally.

Now that the elections are over, I think that it must be admitted that that these same uninterested students chose very wisely, and elected Mr. Bob Muskatov as president of their S.E.C. Although I do not share Mr. Muskatov's political feelings, I admire the way in which he is doing his job. Any student that gives as much time as Mr. Muskatov does, deserves praise.

Mr. George Mueller also has been doing a fine job, and I think that everyone agrees that both dances he has organized so far have been very successful.

On the other hand Mr. Daniels, who was elected chairman of the mess committee, has so far done nothing about the food situation (which is most important here at Dawson).

Yours truly,
Vincent Jolivet,
